

With over 20 years in the event industry, Dolores' experience spans food and beverage sales and marketing; sports marketing, sponsorship management and special events management.

Her no nonsense, let's get the job done and done well attitude sets her in a class all her own. A team player, Dolores Dolores' ability to take an idea and form it into something exceeds all expectations. Her care for everything that she does comes through in all tasks that she undertakes.

Born in New Jersey, Dolores has resided in a handful of East Coast states before moving to the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Dolores is looking forward to bringing the experience and knowledge she has gained in her previous projects to all new opportunities.

Marketing rum for the RL Seale Company from Barbados gave Dolores a background in international marketing.

She managed the food and wine events for Connecticut Public Television and then spent many years working in event marketing and sponsorship management at ESPN.

As a Marketing Director with International Speedway Corporation, Dolores gained exclusive knowledge about hosting large sporting events. All this experience gave Dolores great insight on client needs when she transitioned to the sales side of the event business.

In her current job, she is combining all the learning's from past positions to be able to demonstrate and provide great client service.
